Dear Mr. Adiutori,

Thank you very much for your letter of January 16th, and for presenting me with a copy of your interesting book, "The New Heat Transfer". It is very well produced, and I congratulate you on its production and on the whole venture.

There are not many men in the world who have original ideas; and even fewer of them are willing to back these ideas with their own money. I think that you have set a valuable example, and I wish you well in it.

Yours sincerely,
