Dear Dr. Adiutori:

I have received a review of your subject manuscript and it is enclosed. I believe the appraisal is fair and reasonable. I honestly do not feel that there is sufficient new material to justify publication in the Journal at the present time. We receive far more papers than we can possibly publish and in too many instances, I have to decline a paper in which there is nothing particularly wrong; the decision is made more on the basis of relative merit.

In your case, I am sorry that there was the unfortunate "go-no-go" action in 1963. As I indicated earlier, I have no files pertaining to that period and I can only act as I see fit at the present time.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Reid
